On the 50-yard line

By JOHN WILCHIA

We will start this week's article with the book for the Month of September. Our first book goes to the entire by League for working to be classified a 1-A. The book plays some great football among themselves, but when they step out of their conference they are asking for trouble.

On Saturday, Sept. 28, the entire league played out of their conference. The only winner was Yale over Connecticut 21-18. Eighth, a 1-A school, beat Princeton, 61-41. Massachusetts, another 1-A school, beat Dartmouth, 10-0. Harvard, Brown, and Cornell played 1-A foes and lost by a total of 94-0.

Another book to Lakeland College, in the midwestern part of the country, for losing to Benedictine College, 14-10.

"Take some advice from the Lakeland Chiefs — you're supposed to be the other side of the score. Don't spoil the Lakeland image."

A book to Brent Musburger, of the N.F.L. today show on CBS, for rating Pittsburgh of Penn State in his ratings on the Sept. 29 show.

Penn State just beat Nebraska, while Pitt was coming off a victory over Cincinnati 38-7. Penn State whipped Cincinnati two weeks earlier, 52-0.

A book to Utah for losing 55-10 to Arizona State, but a cheer for them for beating Portland State 46-0 one week later, and Northwestern 42-0 two weeks later.

A book to East Carolina for after a fine 42-7 win over Western Carolina, they dropped games to North Carolina and North Carolina State by a combined score of 87-10.

A book to West Scranton and Bishop O'Hara for scoring only one touchdown in three games in September.

A book to Blue Ridge for giving up over 100 more points than they scored in the month of September.

A book to the "Big 11" for not scoring any points on the Lakeland Chiefs in September. Remember the Talk that Lakeland was lucky last year?

A book to the New England Patriots, the team with all that talent, for going 0-4 in September.

A book to my next door neighbor, who's a Cowboy fan, for calling me "Western Eagles talk behind." You got to wait till the game is over.

The Eagles were ahead of the Redskins 7-6, but playing poorly, and just lost their second straight football game for the year. Call comes in — "What's wrong with the Eagles?"

The Lakeland Booster Club is seeking help at the refreshment stand at the Lakeland football field during the season at home games.

Booster club members or citizens who are willing to work during halftime or at any time during the games are asked to report to the stand or to contact any booster club member.

Final score: Eagles, 36, Saints, 13.

How about a book for Crestwood High for pulling out of the Suburban Conference and joining the Wyoming Valley Conference. They have given up over 40 points per game in their last two losses.

A book to Montreal of the C.F.L. who lost 62-11 to Edmonton in September.

A book to the New York Jets for committing 15 penalties against the Houston Oilers. But a bigger book to the Oilers for still losing the game by a score of 13-17.

Another book in that game goes to either the Oilers' offensive line or Ken Stabler for holding the ball too long. He got sacked eight times for minus 78 yards.

Coach: "Put Oshenevich in."

Assistant coach: "But, coach, he can't walk, and chew gum at the same time."

Coach: "I know that, but I don't like that sports broadcaster."

Pennsylvania National Horse Show is set for the Farm Show Arena in Harrisburg from Oct. 16-24.

Wall Michaels was in Scranton a few weeks ago helping mayoral candidate Angelo Craig's campaign. Seems to me he should worry about looking at some films than trying to tell the way to Scranton in the middle of the season.

John Casey, former Charger track and football star, is a member of Penn State's Scranton Campus cross-country team.

Lock-A-Like: Former Charger footballer Ron Melake and Bert Reynolds.

Here is why John Madden gave up coaching.

"One day, my wife said to me, 'I ought to be getting a car for my son Mike.'"

"Yes, we should think about it in a few years."

She said, "But he's 16."

I said, "I thought he was 12."

That's super jigger: Bill Brown was the coach of the Chagrettes field hockey team.

Congratulations goes out to Carme, Toledo and Carme Bonacci for winning Squelch's Golf League.

Also congratulations to Pat Rover and Lou Gennie, the all-season champs of the Twilight Golf League.

The National Hockey League starts play tonight.

They will play an 80-game schedule and 16 of the league's 21 teams will make the playoffs. Don't look for the Flyers to win the Stanley Cup this year.

Chiefs win fourth 7-0

The Lakeland Chiefs scored in the first quarter Saturday in a game against Abington Heights, but that was all the Chiefs did in the 0-31. Chiefs held the Chiefs to that one score all day.

So, the final outcome was the Lakeland Chiefs 7, Abington Heights 31.

It was an unusual game throughout as the Chiefs' defense held the Chiefs as expected, and the Chiefs were unspectacularly stymied by the Chiefs' defense.

With about half of the first quarter left, the Chiefs started their line scoring drive — using the running of Tony Ford and the passing of Keith Schweppenhauer to Dave Toth and Chris Cline.

The score finally came when Schweppenhauer tossed to Toth from four yards out. The Chiefs, minutes later, missed another scoring opportunity when the Chiefs stopped them on down at the 18.

And still another scoring chance slipped by in the second quarter when the Chiefs were stopped in four plays after intercepting a Chiefs pass at the 34.

Ironically, when the game was over, the Chiefs actually outplayed the Chiefs, who had been averaging over 250 yards a game.

119 yards to 83.

But for the Saturday afternoon game at Chapman Lake it was the Chiefs, passing which pulled the game out at Lakeland completed 77 yards to the Chiefs' home.

The win gave the Chiefs 16 scoreless periods by the Chiefs.

Thus far the Lakeland team has defeated Riverside, North Pocono, West Scranton, and Abington Heights.

The Big 11 Conference defending champions next take on Scranton Tech in Scranton. That game is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 10.

By JOHN WILCHIA

The Carbondale Area Chargers proved that they were a spot in the post-season playoffs with an exciting 20-0 victory over the Western Wayne Wildcats.

Anthony "Shabake" Sponto, a candidate for city council, has outlined some solutions to issues of interest to city residents.

Sponto has voiced his concern over the Williams Avenue stream problem.

He notes that voter referendum for state to borrow $300 million for water and flood-control projects should help Carbondale to solve the Williams Avenue problem and other city water problems in 1982.

Sponto advises that residents write to the governor's office concerning water and bridge problems in the Carbondale area to assure that if the loan is approved, Carbondale will get its fair share of the monies for
